To Whom It May Concern:

Everyone calls him Mr. Sharon because when you meet him you know you are dealing with a true professional. My co-workers and I have worked as vendors in many buildings that Mr. Sharon has managed over the years and in each case there has been environment of mutual respect fostered by Mr. Sharon. Respect is most certainly a trademark of a Sharon Managed Building.

Mr. Sharon has always been among the most demanding of managers but he is able to convey that in the most positive manner. He always assembles the very best vendors for his properties, and if chosen by Mr. Sharon you know you are part of a greater team and you need to perform not only for the residents but for the team itself. The result is he gets what he wants simply by asking and then by showing his appreciation for those that work for and with him. Anyone who has worked in and around the more prestigious properties in Miami-Dade and Broward Counties for the past 20+ years is well aware of Mr. Sharon and his management success.

With Mr. Sharon there is no such thing as "Casual Friday", he and anyone that works in one of his properties are dressed for Business at all times. If you like the formality of the past and the efficiencies of today you will appreciate what Mr. Sharon and Regency Consulting Services will bring to your property. After all these years I consider him a personal friend, and someone you can count on when you need a professional opinion about all things Condominium and Hospitality related but more specifically in the Luxury and Concierge Service Market.

Sincerely,

Carl Lender
