

"Daniel & I worked closely together to create one of Miami's most prestigious 5-star, beachfront residences; he as the Executive Director & I the Director of Spa & Wellness Operations. Anyone who has worked a "start-up" operation knows all of the intricate details that must continuously be addressed and reviewed on a daily basis. Couple this challenge with providing programming, hiring 5-star staffing and creating the foundations of an actual community and you can imagine the pressure he and his team was under. What made it not only a success, but an enjoyable learning experience was his leadership style and his firm commitment to excellence. His legacy was that for years after he had moved on to other projects and ultimately creating Regency Consulting Services, his core team regularly referred to his lock-tight tenants of luxury management for guidance and direction.

He continues to make people believe in themselves more than they had ever imagined possible. Merely getting the job done is too simple a task for Daniel. Getting the job done right is the only option when teaming up with him, and I know few others in this rarified arena that I can say that about."
